Local Affairs.

The Panorama of the Deluge now on exhibition at Odd-Fellows' Hall was visited by a large number of persons last evening. All who have visited it have expressed themselves delighted with the painting.

HERE'S THE GOOD OVETERS. -We have for some time past heard this cry, and it has been pleasant to our ears, but the genuine embodyment of the articles themselves is still more pleasant when we taste them. While on this subject we may observe that our neighbor Benter, on the corner of Sixth street and Penn. Avenue, has provided an immense supply of the delightful oysters.

More of Them .- Since writing the above we have had the most substantial assurance from our old friend Jemmy Davis, that he has supplied himself with a large stock of the best oysters that can be procured.

NATIONAL THEATRE. - This popular place of fashionable resort was last night crowded to overflowing, to witness the masterly personation of Sir John Falstaff, by the inimitable Hacket. There is a rich treat there tonight. The new piece "Man of the World" will be presented. Politicians by all means should attend.

H. B. Matteson has been appointed treasurer of the National Theatre, in the place of Mr. Bensel, resigned. Mr. M. from his polite and urbane manners, will soon become a favorite with the the visiters at that justly popular place of amusement.

Miss Fitzpatrick .- Too much cannot be said in favor of this popular actress. The best way to appreciate her merits is to go and see her to-night at the National.

The citizens of the District will be gratified to know that a bill will shortly be presented in the House of Representatives relating to spurious banking in the District of Columbia. They would be as much gratified if the notes they have in their peckets were to be redeemed at the same time. Laws are of little use when they are not properly executed. Five or ten dollars are cheerfully parted with by offenders who make ten times the amount every hour or two. We hope something may be done to secure our citizens against further losses.

Yesterday William Burke was tried and found guilty of larceny.

Judge Crawford sentenced McQuillan, Faley, Sheckells and Kidwell to four month's imprisonment in the county jail. R. Mitchell and A. Hyde, who submitted their cases to the court on an indictment for riot, were sentenced-Mitchell to six and Hyde to four months in jail.

Ezra Smith, late keeper of the "Adelphi," was yesterday arrested on the complaint of Joseph Wimsatt, charged with obtaining money under false pretences. After sfull and lengthy examination before Justice Clarke, Smith was acquitted.

The following cases were disposed on Monday in the Criminal Court:

Edzabeth Becket, negress, charged with larceny, was found not guilty. Lucinda Davis, negress, found guilty of larceny, and sentenced to nine months imprisonment in the county jail. Thomas Henson, negro, larceny; not guilty.

UNCEE JEMMY'S PRIERD.

Mr. EDITOR: All things have "small beginnings." The wise men who followed the "Star in the East" were few in number, yet the result of their attention to that star has been of incalculable interest and benefit to the whole human family.

Now in this magnificent City of Washington we have seen the first glimmering of the "Evening Star" and although it is small as they came, till there were too many to yet it twinkles brightly, and if it receives the attention of our citizens, it will in a short time, shine as brightly as the "Sun," and glide on the ocean of popular favore, more rapidly than the fastest "Baltimore Clipper."

The men of the East pay attention to this Star. It will be a beacon to warn the workingmen of danger. Merchants and business men, send in your offerings, and the star of properity will shine on you. Ladies smile upon the "Evening Star," and and your star of hope will never decline. And when the patronage of the men and the smiles of the women are bestowed upon an object, the star of properity must be in the ascendent. So may it be with our "Evening Star".

A FRIEND TO HOME PRODUCTION

The Old Brewery, in New York city, within whose precincts not even policemen ventured unarmed, is now undergoing demolition. Great curiosity was excited among the hundreds and thousands who recently visited its ruins, to discover the hiding places supposed to exist in it. The walls and floors were found to be full of crevices, some large enough to allow a man to pass through. In one of the upper rooms were two large holes, one on each side of a fire-place, leading into a large space in the roof, capable of holding or securing a dozen persons. Under the first story was found another large hiding place, entered by a concealed trap-door. This, no doubt, was the place to which many a noted villian cscaped when persued by the police.

The legal penalty of death, which was abolished many years ago by the great Leopold, grandfather of the present reigning Duke, has just been revived.

It is estimated that during the present year the increased value of flour, grain, beef, pork, butter and lard, transported over the New York canals, will amount to $7,877,000.

Mrs. Spectacles says her neice was so rained upon the other night, that she had the fevered nuger ever since, and she supposes would have gone into St. Anthony's dance, only she belonged to the church and she didn't know the steps.

An old gentleman, travelling some years ago inside the Bath mail, had two ladies, sisters, for companions. The younger, an invalid, soon fell asleep, and the old gentleman expressed his regret to see so charming a young lady in ill-health. "Ab, yes, indeed!" eighed the elder sister, "a disease of the heart." "Dear me," was the systematic response, "at her age! Ossification, perhaps? Ossifi--?" "Oh. no. a lieutenent."-

Prof. Reynolds, who once taught the B --- Academy, was the most absent minded man about every day affairs, I ever saw. His mind was all wrapped up with books, and he cared no more about what the world was up to, than a pig cares about the Hottentots. One morning his wife, who, by the way, differed vastly from her spouse in this respect, was reading aloud from the paper an account of a borrible murder. A man had, so the paper said, deliberately killed his whole family-consisting of some dezen members-with an with the exclamation. "What a wretch." "Yes," said the husband, in a very quiet tone, looking up from his book, "he should be talked to."

A gentleman of this city, says the Boston Traveller, has a favorite parler dog, who has long manifested a decided taste for music, uniformly taking up his position near the piano whenever it is played, and evincing unusual interest in the performances. A few days since, as the gentleman informs us, his wife, while sitting in an adjoining room, was surprised to hear, as she supposed, some person fumbling at the piano in a singularly awkward manner. On examining the cause of the disturbance, she found the dog, seized by an impulse of imitation, standing upon his hind feet, and actually engaged in attempting to play upon the instrument. That is a wonderful dog, and no doubt, with proper training may become a musical predigy.

ol Want to be an Angel."

A child sat in the door of a cottage at the close of a summer Sabbath. The twilight was fading, and as the shades of evening darkened, one after another of the stars shone in the sky, and looked down on the child in his thoughtful mood. He was looking up at the stars and counting them be counted, and his eyes wandered all over the Heavens, watching the bright world shirts, may render herself very serviceable aboge. He was so absorbed, that his mother called to him and said:

"My son, what are you thinking of?" He started as is suddenly aroused from is life. sleep, and answered,

"I was thinking -- "

"Yes," said his mother, "I know you were thinking, but what were you thinking about ?"

"Oh," said he, and his little eyes sparkled with the thought, "I want to be an an-

"And why, my son, would you be an angel ?"

and there the angels live, and God, and are body. happy; I do wish I was good and God would take me there, and let me wait on him forever."

The mother called him to her knee, and he leaned on her bosom and wept. She wept, too, and smoothed the soft hair of his head as he stood there, and kissed his forehead, and then told him that if he would give his heart to God, now while he was young that the Saviour would forgive all his sins, and take him up to heaven when he died, and then he would be with God forever.

His young heart was comforted. He knelt at his mother's side and said:

> "Jesus Saviour, Son of God, Wash me with thy pracious blood; I thy little lamb would be, lielp me, Lord, to look to thee."

The mother took tee young child to her chamber, and soon he was asleep, dream ing, perhaps, of angels and of heaven.

A few monfhs afterwards sickness was on him, and the light of that cottage, and the joy of that mother's heart went out. He breathed his last in her arms, and as he took her parting kiss, he whispered in her

"I am going to be an angel."

THE CHILD WE LIVE FOR .- It would be unwise in us to call that man wretched who. whatever he suffers as to pain inflicted, or pleasure denied, has a child for whom he hopes, and on whom he doats. Poverty may grind him to the dust: obscurity may cast its darkest mantle over him; the song of the gay may be far from his own dwelling: his face may be unknown to his neighbors, and his voice may be unheeded by those among whom he dwells-even pain may rack his joints, and sleep may flee from his pillow; yet has he a gem with which he would not part for wealth, defying computation, for fame filling a world's ear, for the luxury of the highest wealth, or for the sweetest sleep that ever sat upon a mortal's eye .- Coleridge.

Human happiness has no perfect security but freedom-freedom none but virtue-virtue none but knowledge; and neither freedom nor virtue nor knowledge has any vigor or immortal hope, except in the principles of the Christian Faith and in the sanction of the Christian Religion.

MASON'S PATENT PURIFIED

This oil, for brilliancy, durability, and purity as a light, and for lubricating purposes, whether applied to the delicate works of a watch or the most ponderous machinery, surpasses any oil now known.

It is warranted not to gum, being entirely deprived of that substance, which so seriously impedes the ralid movement of all kinds of machinery; and for burning it is cheaper and better than any olesginous substance now in use.

While it affords a light superior to gas or camphine, it is also free from the dangerous explosive quality of the latter, being solely sperm oil purified. So pure is this oil that it will not freeze at any degree of cold known within the limits of the United States; having thereby in this, as in every other particular, an advantage over the best sperm oil as now

After devoting many years in experimenting with the various olls, for the purpose of overcoming their impurities as at present fabricated, the undersigned assures the public that he has succeeded in producing the "ne plus ultra" of oils. He offers it as superior to any known oil in the world, for the purposes of burning and lubricating, and invokes the scientific of all countries to test it and pronounce their opinion satisfied that all will agree that it is the finest oil ever offered for sale.
